

NCCDPHP

HEALTHY TRIBES

RESOURCE DIGEST

Welcome to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) tribal resource digest for the week of February 27, 2023. The purpose of this digest is to help you connect with the tools and resources you may need to do valuable work in your communities.

Announcements

Public Health Learning Network

As the National Coordinating Center for Public Health Training (NCCPHT), the National Network of Public Health Institutes is a collaborative leader and facilitator of the Public Health Learning Network (PHLN), the nation's most comprehensive system of public health educators, experts, and thought leaders. Together with our partners in the PHLN, the Regional Public Health Training Centers, we aim to advance public health practice and improve population health in the United States.

Read more here.

Association of Schools & Programs of Public Health and CDC Public Health Fellowship Program

The ASPPH/CDC Public Health Fellowship Program is a collaborative effort between the Association of Schools and Programs of Public Health (ASPPH) and CDC, and includes a new Health Education track in 2023! Fellowship positions are full-time training opportunities for one year, and may be extended for up to two additional years. Public health graduates interested in learning more can watch the recording of the information session.

Learn more about the fellowship opportunity here. | Application deadline March 2nd, 2023

Seven Directions Indigenous Evaluation Toolkit

Seven Directions, with the support of the Centers for Disease Control & Prevention and the National Network of Public Health Institutes, has produced an Indigenous Evaluation Toolkit. This Toolkit provides step-by-step guidance, worksheets and concrete examples to support communities looking to Indigenize and decolonize their program evaluation. As Indigenous communities continue to shape programming to reflect their own stories, ways of knowing, and cultural perspectives, there is a growing need for frameworks that support the infusion of this knowledge into the evaluation of their programs focused on substance use prevention, treatment, and recovery support. Through step-by-step guidance, worksheets, and storytelling, this toolkit offers communities an iterative, reflective, continuous learning process for beginning or incorporating Indigenous evaluation.

Read more here.

Webinars

4th Annual Native Youth School and Community Wellness Conference

The Native American Youth Mental Health Conference brings together leaders, educators, mental health practitioners, researchers, Native American youth, and other stakeholders in fields related to Native American mental health and wellness to share up-to-date research and best practices on youth mental health & wellness. This year's virtual conference will discuss ways to empower Native American Youth and Families to thrive during difficult times. Please join us to discover culturally relevant and science-based strategies to improve the mental health and wellness of Native American youth and families.

Read more and register here. | Thursday, March 9, 2023 1:30 p.m. PT & Friday, March 10, 2023 9:00 a.m. PT

Contact Information:

National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion

Division of Population Health

4770 Buford Highway, MS S107-6

Atlanta, GA 30341

(770) 488-5131 / <http://www.cdc.gov/chronicdisease/index.htm>

The Digest serves as your personal guide to repositories of open and free resources where you can find content to enrich your program or your professional growth. Please note that CDC does not endorse any materials or websites not directly linked from the CDC website. Links to non-Federal organizations found in this digest are provided solely as a courtesy. CDC is not responsible for the content of the individual organization web pages found at these links.

If you have comments or suggestions about this weekly update, please email Dariel Stanford at SPU5@cdc.gov with the words "TRIBAL DIGEST" in the subject line.